Dolby Laboratories Showcases the Intersection of Art and Science for High School Students in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 08, 2018 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Today, Dolby Laboratories, Inc. (NYSE:DLB) hosted high school juniors from the Arts, Media & Entertainment Academy at Philip & Sala Burton Academic High School, part of the San Francisco Unified School District. The event, now in its third year, is led by Dolby Cares, the company's community relations program focused on inspiring the next generation of innovators and addressing communities' most critical needs.

The day-long event saw students pitch ideas for film projects to Dolby's video production and marketing team, participate in a career panel, learn about Dolby technologies, and experience some of the more than 100 labs in the company's San Francisco headquarters.
